

Leading Advances in Education
and Medical Research

Milken Family Foundation Cancer Research Awards in the 1980s

Stuart A. Aaronson, M.D.
Thaddeus P. Dryja, M.D.
Lawrence H. Einhorn, M.D.
Bernard Fisher, M.D.
Michael M. Gottesman, M.D.
Edward Harlow Jr., M.D.
James F. Holland, M.D.
Wuan Ki Hong, M.D.
Stephen B. Howell, M.D.
Philip Leder, M.D.
Victor Ling, Ph.D.
Lance A. Liotta, M.D., Ph.D.

John D. Minna, M.D.
Charles Myers, M.D.
Robert F. Ozols, M.D., Ph.D.
Steven Rosenberg, M.D., Ph.D.
Charles J. Scherr, M.D., Ph.D.
Dennis Slamon, M.D., Ph.D.
Robert Tijan, Ph.D.
Bert Vogelstein, M.D.
Thomas Waldmann, M.D.
Robert A. Weinberg, Ph.D.
Owen N. Witte, M.D.
Ernst L. Wynder, M.D.

MILKEN FAMILY
FOUNDATION

Leading Advances in Education
and Medical Research

Milken Family Foundation Cancer Research Awards in the 1980s

Dennis Slamon, M.D.

Herceptin

MILKEN FAMILY
FOUNDATION

Leading Advances in Education
and Medical Research

Milken Family Foundation Cancer Research Awards in the 1980s

Bert Vogelstein, M.D.

“Completed pioneering work on the crucial p53 gene whose mutant form is believed to be involved in more than half of human cancers.”

- A Call to Action

MILKEN FAMILY
FOUNDATION

Leading Advances in Education
and Medical Research

Milken Family Foundation Cancer Research Awards in the 1980s

Steven Rosenberg, M.D.

Reported a major breakthrough in the development of successful gene therapy that for the first time in history harnessed the body's own immune system to shrink tumors.

Dr. Rosenberg is now chief of surgery at the National Cancer Institute.

MILKEN FAMILY
FOUNDATION

Leading Advances in Education
and Medical Research

Milken Family Foundation Cancer Research Awards in the 1980s

Lawrence Einhorn, M.D.

Developed a highly successful chemotherapy regimen for testicular cancer, increasing the survival rate from 10% to 95%.